Dear Sir,

Mrs. Rickman has passed your letter to me so that I can reply to your queries.

I have five children (four in their teens) making us a large family of seven.

My wife and I are teachers and have been approached by the University to provide accommodation for students and foreign students who visit in the summer and at Easter. The Recreation Centre (which is at the end of the street) has also asked if we could provide temporary accommodation for teachers taking up posts in Southampton. If the alterations were carried out I feel we could provide more adequate and suitable accommodation and amenities for these people.

The forecourt is already concreted for parking, and there is space for seven cars (we have only one).

The house next door to us and the two houses opposite already provide this sort of accommodation as do several other houses at the end of Goswood Road. The two houses opposite have recently had rooms built into their roofs for this purpose.

Should you require further information I would be happy to supply it.

Yours faithfully,

John Jackson
